In the Exhibition Halls.

The sound of the hammer and the saw, the moving of boxes, trunks and other receptacles containing exhibits in the two halls was a noise which almost before sun-up on Tuesday gave one the impression right away that never before had such an exhibition of goods been made at the Oxford County fair. This impression was borne out by Secretary W. O. Frothingham, who estimated that there were fully 450 exhibitors in the two halls and probably 100 had been turned away because of lack of room.

Even up to noon of Tuesday applications were being turned away because there was no room for them. Not only was all the floor space covered, but there was not room enough left on the walls to hang a piece of fly paper. As each hall is 100x40 feet you can take your pencil and paper and figure out just how many square feet of exhibits there are in the two halls. The walls of the halls are about 15 feet high, and the square feet of total exhibits thereby makes a very respectable amount for the Oxford County fair.

If there is anything made or grown within the confines of the county and a sample of which is not on view the memory of man fails to recall it or select a name for such. There are all there and are good to look at.

Let's see what's here: All the late and popular songs, band and orchestra music, emitted from the business end of countless horns of various sizes, shapes and materials hits one square in the face and ears as he enters the lower hall. The music is played by the boys and their way over the Victor, Edison and Edison records and the phonographs helping in the work and the Edison and Victor. The merits of the machines are told by A. F. Clark, who is in charge of the exhibit for F. A. Shurtlett & Co., South Paris.

"I've been attending fairs here for a great many years, and this is the best ever," said B. Alexander of Boston, as he told of the merits of his goods for damaged eyesight. His place was at the right of the entrance.

Persian shell necklaces, beads, bracelets, rings and Merry Widow hat pins are displayed by A. E. Gray, Boston. The beauties of burned and painted leather goods, strung neatly around the booth, are described by C. B. Craig, Boston.

Amatic roofing, said to be a little better than the average, is shown and demonstrated by H. W. Weeks.

Frank Waters French, representing the Gift Shop of Boston, has everything in the line of plain and burned leather goods, from a spectacle case to a coin purse. They are in the northeast corner of the lower hall.

The only things needed to keep warm this winter are fuel and a Herald stove or range, shown by J. P. Richardson of South Paris. There are many patterns of this particular heating and cooking apparatus.

Serious, sentimental and sarcastic are the types of postcards displayed by the Concord Advertising Co. of Concord, N. H., and in charge of W. R. Follett of that city.

Jewelry, wire goods, novelties and many of the things of the season are line are shown by Mrs. G. A. Kenerson, who has large space and a good business under the stairway at the left of the lower hall.

Situated on both sides is the Celtic Asphalt Roofing, made for all kinds of buildings in every climate and shown by Horace Pike, Norway. In the same space and shown by Mr. Pike is To-Walk-On Stain, which as its name implies is made to resist the effect of dirt and scratching on an and keeps clean the floor for the busy housewife. Mound City Paint for houses and Aurora Buggy Paint for vehicles are grouped in mounds in Mr. Pike's space, he being the Norway agent for all the Mound City products. He also has the Horse Shoe Paint, made in many tints and colors.

The vegetables, as usual, are arranged along the west side of the lower hall, as well as along the east side. There is, and the extent of the exhibit denotes that in spite of the drought the season has been productive to gardeners. The range of one vegetable to every species known to Oxford County soil. There is apparently enough to furnish boiled dinners and red flannel hash from now until the 67th annual on the Norway and South Paris grounds.

The aroma of breakfast coffee and tea attracts many to the booth where Society coffee is being demonstrated by Mrs. Bertha Rowell and Mrs. Annie Walker of Boston, and where free sips are handed out. H. T. Elwell of Boston is in charge and with every purchase of a pound of Society coffee a free sample of the tea is given.

Mrs. Walter Tubbs, Norway, has a pyramid stand of canned goods of every variety of fruit, and made in her own kitchen. Therefore a pure food label is not required on the goods.

Butter, rich in color and pleasant in flavor, is displayed in a neatly arranged space by Edith Knightly, Norway.

Products of the Waterford Creamery Co., South Waterford, made in all shapes for the market, occupy a place on the east side of the lower hall.

Fred H. Kelley, Norway, has an entry of potatoes which are members of the giant class. Because many of the exhibitors of vegetables are not tagged this year one has to guess at the name of the variety.

Franklin Maxim, South Paris, has Red Globe and Wetherfield onions, Green Mountain potatoes, beets and turnips.

F. M. Edwards, South Paris, shows 205 kinds of beans, from the lowly pea to the aristocratic eyed fellow.

N. K. Bennett, Norway, shows Delaware potatoes and blood turnips.

A box of seeds, flower and vegetable and including many varieties is entered by S. H. Kilgore, Norway.

Yellow corn and potatoes from Harry Dudley of Buckfield shows that good farm products are grown in the town which has the honor of being the birthplace of the Hon. John D. Long.

A twin apple and a triple onion entered by B. F. Cummings, South Paris, share attention with his exhibit of beets.

Cyrus Dudley, Buckfield, has many varieties of potatoes.

V. E. Dunn, Norway, grows watermelons as well as giant potatoes, turnips and beets, showing them in many sizes.

Early White Spine cucumbers are shown by A. T. Crocker, Norway, and I. H. Pingree, Oxford. Ida Jodrey, South Paris, also has several cucumbers on view.

Carrots, parsnips, beets and tomatoes of various sizes, colors and flavors are shown by Fanny Forbes, South Paris.

B. P. Bullock, Norway, has beets, any one of which would be sufficient for the dinner of a large family.

A. B. Tyler, South Paris, has an exhibit of cucumbers of some size.

Willie Abbott, Norway, apparently devoted much of his time last summer in growing tomatoes, pumpkin and squash, for he has quite a display of those vegetables.

Cauliflower and many other vegetables from the farm of C. G. French, Norway, are on the table and shelves along the walls.

Six squash of mammoth size are from the garden of Arthur Dow, South Paris. Leon Abbott, South Paris, also has several squash.

C. G. French, Norway, has quite a collection of sweet and yellow corn.

Pie pumpkin and squash, cantaloupe, watermelons, beans and yellow corn are shown by W. H. Porter, Norway.

Marrow and Hubbard squash of various sizes, as well as several pumpkins are shown by Cyrus Woodsum, Norway.

N. K. Bennett, Norway, has yellow corn in great variety.

A display of squash that attracts attention is that belonging to Freeman Abbott, Norway.

String beans with the strings a foot long are shown by Rose A. Murphy, South Paris.

Grant Royal, South Paris, has three varieties of potatoes.

E. D. Gould, South Paris, has a fine display of squash, pie pumpkin, beets, cucumbers, tomatoes and watermelon.

Grace Egan, South Paris, is in charge of W. J. Wheeler's exhibit of Poole pianos, which keeps busy playing popular compositions.

Oxford County Creamery, South Paris, has a large display of their products made in many molds.

Mrs. D. A. Watson, Norway, has June and July butter.

For leaky and cracked rubbers the Eastern Novelty Co. of Lynn, Mass., has an exhibit of Mendum, and B. H. Fairfield shows what the goods can do for damaged footwear.

Along the east wall of the upper hall and in a setting over the display of apples is the exhibit of drawing from the pupils of the Norway public schools.

The work is by the grades from two to nine, and the talent of art shown by the former grades pupils finds a fitting ending in the work shown by the seniors of the latter. In the former outline and shading is shown, going by easy stages to the last grade, where the brush of an expert artist is not needed to add beauty.

Included in the work of Grade 5 is silhouette and coloring, and mottoes, with a variety of free hand work. Norway has young artists who will be heard from in the future.

A braided rug by Mrs. F. L. Thurston, Norway, occupies a commanding place on the northeast wall. Mrs. Catherine Chadbourne, East Waterford, also has a braided rug hung on the wall.

Mrs. R. D. Gould, South Paris, has a collection of house plants of the non-flowering varieties.

Mrs. G. W. Chok, Norway, has a cut flower piece and is centre for the collections shown by Mrs. B. S. Rideout, Norway, and E. P. Crockett, Paris. The blooms are all such as occupy the spare space of one's front yard and lends a variety of colors more radiant and numerous than the rainbow.

How to make brown bread and results of the mixing of the recipe by a girl 10 years old is exhibited by Ruth Smith, Norway; Frances Bartlett, Norway, enters the same for a girl of 9 years.

Ernestine Maxim, Norway, 9, shows canned peaches and pears, as well as mixed pickles.

A sofa pillow done in stitch of zigzag lines and entered by Alta Rand, aged 5 years, of South Paris indicates that the little miss is a busy body with needle and silk.

Bernice Noble, Norway, also has a pillow made by the featherstitch. Pillows also are shown by Marion Bangs, Frances Bartlett, Marjorie Locke and Olara Shepard, all of Norway.

A waist as good as most department stores carry, and on the drawn work pattern is shown by Lois E. Hollis, 14 years old, of West Paris. Other samples of needlework by juveniles are entered by Madeline Andrews, Norway; Alberta Farris, Oxford; Bernice Nash, Tamaia M. Westleigh, 5 years old, Hazel Bicknell, Mildred Curtis, Irene Locke, Madeleine Nevers, all of Norway.

Charles Francis Cummings of Norway, the little son of George I. Cummings is a young agriculturist, who has a unique product for this section of the country, full sized peanuts on the tops just pulled up from the ground. Master Charles March and his brother transplanted them in the garden. They have a pretty, thick, glossy, healthy looking green leaf and the peanuts look just like the store peanuts.

On the same table are sketches in black and white by Marion Haskell, Norway, with samples done last year and this. The improvement on the 1908 entry is noticeable. A watercolor by Marguerite Swan, Norway, done by a girl under 10 years, shows a scene in a wooded lot beside the lake and apparently near some cottage. Signed Fruit is the title of a drawing in colors by Herman Woodward, South Paris. Ashley Edwards, 11, South Paris, has two oil paintings. There are watercolors done by Ruth and Dorothy Noble, Norway, each under 16 years old. A collection of caricatures done in lead pencil are shown by Alice Barden, West Paris.

Mittens, stockings and other knit goods are shown by Mrs. Fred Bonney, South Paris; Mrs. Sarah Packard, West Paris; and Ashley Edwards, South Paris. Skein yarn is shown by Mrs. G. B. Stone, West Paris.

Knit and crochet slippers, shawls, baby and fascinators and about every article which adds comfort and beauty to the appearance of Oxford County women are shown in the space devoted to that particular branch of woman's handwork. Some of the exhibitors are Fanny Forbes, Abbie Swan, South Paris; Martha Andrews, Alma Kilgore, Susan P. Kelley, Mrs. G. A. Allen, Mrs. C. H. Downing, Norway; Mrs. I. H. Pingree, Oxford; Mary Butters, South Paris; Lena Dyer, Buckfield; Mrs. John F. Mason, Mrs. J. J. Emery, Mrs. Emory Record, South Paris; and Lena Dyer, Buckfield.

Crochet dollies are shown by H. A. Scribner, Norway, and Mrs. Eliot Record, South Paris. Mrs. John Lasselle, Norway, has a display of crochet work; Mrs. J. J. Emery, South Paris, has a crochet handkerchief case; Helen Milet, Norway, pin cushion; Mrs. G. A. Allen, Norway, underwear; Annette Eastman, Paris is Hill, a fine display; Mrs. F. W. Bonser, South Paris, dolly; Mrs. James Usher, Norway, bureau seat; Mrs. J. J. Emery, South Paris, pin cushion, also dolly.

Has anyone who is going to move away, or for any other reason, got a piano they want housed for the use of the piano? The best of care will be taken of it. For further particulars address "21" ADVERTISER office, Norway.

The Jungle Show.
Linwood Flint, the wild animal man of Waterford, has a large and interesting exhibit, named the "Jungle." His place can easily be found on the pike by a generous banner display, including a painting of the bearded lynx, which is certainly an interesting animal to watch inside the canvas. Mr. Flint has about ten cages in all, besides a good collection of rare fish, including a porcupine and balloon fish, in fine condition. This show is instructive and entertaining, as Mr. Flint can tell many things in natural history not known to the ordinary run of observers. His lecture on the habits, life and method of training the animals is worth twice the price of admission. This exhibitor is a young man well known in this state, yes, I might say, a household word among all carnival showmen and people handling wild animals.

Several years ago, Mr. Flint conceived the idea of capturing our State of Maine porcupine for exhibition purposes. From a small beginning, that is, with a few of the quilled tribe in stock, he has built up a thriving business, furnishing side-shows, carnival pit shows, window displays and menageries, with almost any animal required.

He has constantly on hand, at his porcupine farm in Waterford, a large collection of wild beasts that might cause most of us to cringe with fear. His method of handling differs from many. Kindness is his motto—and good treatment always. Baby porcupines lie contented in his arms and the older ones will follow him about the premises as a faithful dog would a kid master.

Mr. Flint's porcupines are shipped all over our country, especially through the south, where an animal with sharp quills, with barbed ends, draw the curious people by thousands.

Every shipment is made across the water to foreign countries, where these inoffensive animals received great attention because of their covering.

Don't leave the grounds without seeing the "Jungle." It is truly named, because of the Bears, Badger, Wolf, Prairie Dogs, Bearded Lynx, Porcupines, Horned Toads, Opposum and rare Fish. Nothing offensive. A real natural history school.

Fair Notes.
One of the busy men at the grounds this year is Ralph Israel Trask, police headquarters reporter for the Worcester, Mass., Telegram, but who comes to Norway for the annual to greet his friends at the ticket window in the grand stand at the grounds. Ralph had his first newspaper work on the ADVERTISER, writing interesting doings of the Maine boys who went to the front during the war with Spain, ten years ago. He told then in graphic language how things were in the south and has used the same style of descriptive writing since joining the staff of the Telegram more than a year ago.

After he came back from the south Mr. Trask did considerable writing for the Boston newspapers and furnished other publications with dialect poetry. Probably his best piece of work in that line was the description of a woodman's cross-cut saw. Since joining the staff of the Telegram, Mr. Trask has written some of the biggest police stories in Worcester, and is regarded by Editor Cristy as a valuable man on the job. He arrived in Norway last Saturday and will return to Worcester this week.

There are base ball games Tuesday at 2 p. m.; Wednesday and Thursday at 10 o'clock a. m. The nines that play are Lewistons vs. Radcliffes; West Paris vs. Radcliffes; Mechanics Falls vs. Radcliffes. The baby show Tuesday at 2 p. m. calls out a large display of fine youngsters.

W. McKay of Rumford Falls runs a "public auto" during the fair.

Dr. Harry Nevers of Lawrence is with us again and not able to keep away from our Oxford County celebration. His interest naturally centers around the ball games. While attending Bowdoin medical school he played on many fast teams in the New England League.

The Turf Farm & Home is ably represented by R. L. Kimball of Poland, who is busy among horsemen.

Albert Williamson and wife are with us during the fair, taking in the sights and visiting friends.

SMILEY'S

When you see the name, you think of Dry Goods, because that is Smiley's business in several towns and it is his only business.

There is Power in Our Chain of Stores

There is fine saving in our heavy purchases. You will notice it in your dealings with us.

SMILEY'S, NORWAY,

However, is the special store we speak of now. The largest in this section of the state.

The Dress Goods Department is packed with the newest creations, in all the qualities, from low to fine. A dressmaker is there to assist when you need her.

Linens.—The good housewife's heart can be made glad, looking through our Imported and Domestic Damask, Napkins and Towels, and the reasonable prices attract, as well as the extensive line of qualities.

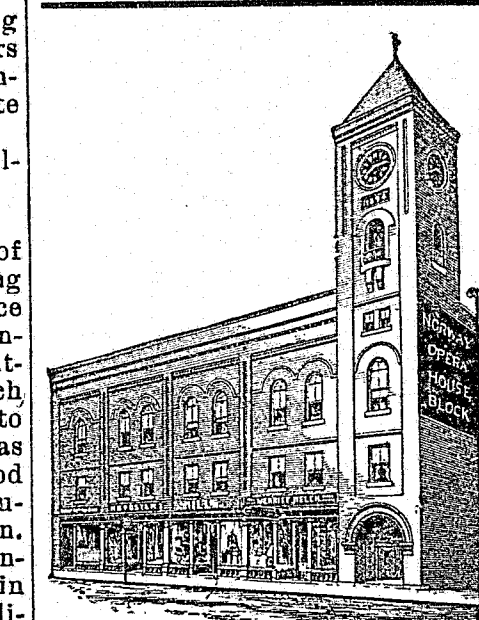

Suits, Coats and Furs.—This department is one of the finest in New England for medium priced goods—that is, from $5 to $25. These goods are direct from the factory, were made to our order, and we guarantee the price on every piece we sell.

Blankets.—When you purchase, you can save much money here. Our large orders were given to the mill agents at the time of business depression, when a little money would buy much. To buy them now since business has revived, the cost would be more, but we are selling our early purchases at the saving prices.

Hosiery and Underwear.—You have probably purchased goods from this department. However, we want to jog your memory concerning the excellency of these goods. Quality, first of all, is considered. Every merchant has a 25c. vest, but few will sell you the high quality that you find here, because they will not pay for the high grade of yarn. We do as we do, because we will not put out anything we cannot stand behind.

Throughout the store, we are continually offering inducements—Neckwear, Belts, Laces, Ribbons, Wrappers, Sweaters, Corsets, and wherever you go, you will be attracted by extensive assortments and price savings.

Horse Notes.

Beginning with the line back of the grand stand on the lower end of the grounds in unnumbered stalls we find Robert D. Waitt of Lewiston with two fast ones, namely: Law Foster, entered free for all, trot and pace, and Prince Henry Westland in the 2:25 trot. Near by is Joan D Arc, entered by Z. W.
Morse, Rumford, in the 2:27 trot and pace.

We find a large string in stalls 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, owned by Presque Isle Stock Farm, Presque Isle. They show Olga, Fred and b, m, with a mark of 2:28 1/2 and will start in the 2:30 class. Whisper, a nice looking stallion with a 2:27 1/2 clip, will be given a chance in the 2:25 trot and pace.
Simon, b, g, Presque Isle Stock Farm, Presque Isle, a 2:15 1/2 mark and will make some step fast in the free for all trot and pace. Toney D, a beautiful five year old with a record of 2:19 1/2, will be started in the 2:19. Watchman, with a 2:24 1/2 mark, looks good and is entered in the 2:25 class.

In stalls 9, 10, will be found N. J. Foss of Cornish with Butcher Boy to be started in the 2:25 race, and Dr. Keene marked 2:19 1/2. Horsemen following the fairs several years back will remember Butcher Boy on the Bethel track. Then a young horse he showed considerable speed when owned and driven by Chauncey Bryant of Bethel, who placed this name on him, and since has not disappointed his present owner.

Stalls 10, 11, are taken by W. B.
Stone of York and J. S. J. of Bridgton. Princeton R can be seen here and is to enter the 2:25 trot and pace.
Passing on we find in stall 23 Sable Prince, b, s, owned by Hall & Young of Bethel. This stallion is certainly a fine animal and put up a good appearance.
L. A. Hall uses him in heavy harness about his farm work and offers plenty of hard work along with speed. They also have in stall 24 B. L. Sable, another good local. Roy Welch has the care of both horses.

A. J. Rowe, Auburn, occupies stall 29, showing Kie John, b, g, entered in the 2:27.

Eva L, b, m, entered in 2:40 trot and pace and owned by A. C. Russell, South Paris, can be seen in stall 25. In fact the three following stalls hold good horse flesh from Mr. Russell's stable.

Odd Fellow is in stall 31 under the care of James Russell. He will start in the 2:25 trot and pace. C. J. Russell has Manilla Boy b, g, in stall 31 and looks like a winner in the 2:19 trot and pace.

F. O. Walker, Rumford Falls, offers a large string this year. He occupies stalls 37-43. Here can be found Archibleard, standard bred, of Archibleard, 2:15 1/2, and Valerius, 2:13 1/2. The string is under the efficient care of W. R. Blair.
Don't leave this section of the grounds
without visiting the lower line of stalls again and look over the offering of Mountain View Farm, South Paris. Here
we find American Law (32,697) entered in the 3:25 trot and pace. Attorney at Law b, g, sire American Law, dam Nettie Waitt, is up in the three-year old class and ought to make good. J. F. Howland certainly has some fast ones in these two horses. In fact their record is too well known for comment.

Harry T, b, g, is just below the Stock Farm display. N. F. Preble of Lewiston out during the past three years. Wm.
Nelson will probably be his driver if a start is made in the 2:30 trot and pace or the 2:40 trot and pace.

Draft Horses.
The heavy horses were late coming in but in all the drawing contests there are a good number entered. R. M. Morrill of Norway is here with his horses. Mr.
Morrill got $98 in prizes with them at the State fair.
More information will be formed regarding the heavy horses in the write up of the drawing contests.

They have it nearly finished.
Mrs. Mary E. Andrews of Alpine street
Norway is attending the Exposition at Hartford, Pa.

Joseph A. Holt of Bridgton is visiting his brother, Chas. E. Holt, and going to the fair. He attends the fair every year.
Mrs. A. O. Howard and daughter, Marion, of Biddeford have been visiting their aunt, Miss E. L. O'Connell, Bethel street.

It is understood that a party of citizens are to organize and start a private water supply with a reservoir on Pike's hill.

Walter L. Gray has bought a new motor boat. A larger one with bigger engine. He has sold the one he has been using to Geo. T. Tubbs.

Mrs. Justin E. McIntire of East Waterford suffered a paralytic shock. Thruout, Sept. 10. She is comfortable and getting on as well as could be expected.

Why should labor be personified in the cartoons as a man with a square jaw, presumably of paper, on his head? Does anyone ever see in real life such headgear?

The gas pump of the Norway Water
Co. has been repaired and was started on Wednesday evening. Mr. Andrews says full pressure will now be kept on the main.

A school will be maintained at First Hill, beginning Monday, Sept. 21. Sarah
A. Danforth, teacher. The two Sunday pupils, Ellen Hill and Margaret Frost,
will be conveyed to Norway.

H. A. Wheeler of Holyoke, Mass., arrived here last Friday and immediately went to work on the gas pump of the Norway Water Co. He is setting on nicely with it and it is soon to be in working order, and the water pressure will be kept up.

The quarterly meeting of the Universalist church
resumes its part in the service next Sunday morning. E. G. Stoddard of Auburn will sing in place of Mr. Follett. The very excellent bass voice of Mr. Stoddard will be heard to good advantage as he has been delegated to sing a solo.

Next Sunday will be Harvest Day at the Methodist church and all who are interested are invited to bring fruit, vegetables, groceries or money as they have been prospered, or an offering of mercy and help for the hungry and the suffering. The church will be decorated for the occasion. Music and sermons will be appropriate for the day.

Notice.
All Norway schools, not now in session, open Monday, Sept. 21.
First and Second grade pupils in the village, living between Cottage and Paris streets, will attend the Middle Primary school, on Tucker street.

Fair Notes.
L. B. Walker's Suberba show that proved a leading attraction of the fair went from here to Rochester, N. Y.
Trenton, N. J., York, Pa. and Hagerstown, Md., and so on to the southern states.

Many of the fakers who we heard express an opinion say that at this fair
they received the best patronage. N. J.
Trenton, N. J., York, Pa. and Hagerstown, Md., and so on to the southern states.

George P. Downing opened up for business in front of the big hall Wednesday morning and with George Bozell as assistant, supplied many persons with products of the Radcliffe shoe factory.

It was an excellent opportunity for visitors to secure Norway-made shoes which were practically as good as new,
the goods being but slightly managed and many of them sample lots.

Mr. Downing now handles all the shoes put out by the Radcliffe people which are not shipped to wholesale dealers.

One of those who visited the Fair on Wednesday was former Agricultural Editor Edgwin W. Radcliffe of Lewiston. He dropped into the press room early in the day and became reminiscent. He marveled at the crowd pouring through the gates and said that he remembered a session of the fair when it was held at Paris Hill and all the exhibits were placed on a table about six feet by two.

There are base ball games Tuesday at 2 p. m.; Wednesday and Thursday at 8 o'clock a. m. The games that play are Lewistons vs. Radcliffes; West Paris vs.
Radcliffes; Mechanic Falls vs. Radcliffes.

The baby show Tuesday at 2 p. m.
calls out a large display of fine youngsters.

"McKay of Rumford Falls run a
"put auto" during the fair.

Dr. Harry Newell Lawrence is with us again and not able to keep away from our Oxford County celebration. His interest naturally centers around the ball games. While attending Bowdoin medical school he played on many fast teams in the New England League.

The Turf, Farm & Home is ably represented by R. L. Kimball of Poland, who is busy among horsemen.

Albert Williamson and wife are with us during the fair, taking in the sights and visiting friends.

How many readers of the ADVERTISER can tell the number of flora species in Oxford county? Marion Isabel Starbird of Oxford has a collection of 80 varieties of herbarian specimens of the county, showing samples of flowers, grasses and weeds of the woods and fields, the total being surprising to those who take only a casual look at such while driving along the highway.

Charles Penley of Norway was marshal at the grounds, Wednesday.
